47th Annual Meeting and Conference

Friday - November 17, 2017

Radisson Hotel

Warwick, Rhode Island

Raymond Hintz, PhD

University of Maine

"Fun with Drones: Using the Technology for Topographic Mapping"

"Updates to On-Line Surveying Education at the University of Maine"

Raymond J. Hintz is a professor of surveying engineering technology at the University of Maine, and is program coordinator for the B.S. program in surveying engineering technology. Prior to his present position from 1983 to 1987 he was an assistant professor of civil engineering at the University of Florida. He has B.S., M.S., and PhD degrees in Civil and Environmental Engineering with emphasis in surveying and photogrammetry from the University of Wisconsin. His research interests lie in automation of data collection and processing of surveying and photogrammetric information. Specific to the topic of interest, he has been responsible for development of the Cadastral Electronic Field Book, which enables automatic entry of measurement and automated field note information into Cadastral Measurement Management (CMM). At the heart of CMM is a least squares analysis driver for conventional survey measurements and GPS. Both products were developed for the Bureau of Land Management. Also in conjunction with the Bureau of Land Management, he has developed Geographic Measurement Management which is the approved tool for development of their Geographic Coordinate Data Base. GMM has a least squares analysis system which is designed for record survey information. A third project was partial responsibility for the development of Florida Department of Transportation's Electronic Field Book, data processing, and topographic data modeling software system. His primary involvement in this project was the Electronic Field Book Processor (EFBP) which is the least squares analysis engine for a automated link from raw data to final coordinates. EFBP has in recent times been adapted to also accept SDMS (AASHTO) format data and various vendor raw survey data formats. He has published more than 50 articles in journal and conference proceedings, and is a registered land surveyor in the states of Maine and Florida.

"Fun with Drones: Using the Technology for Topographic Mapping"

The use of Unmanned Aerial Vehicles (UAV's) or drones is an alternative to traditional topographic mapping field collection or fixed wing photogrammetry. This seminar will describe types of drones available or mapping collection. An example flight plan for a job will be developed in class. Example collected data and processing of the data along with potential ground survey control requirements will be illustrated. Example products of very dense point clouds and orthophotography will be examined. Point cloud data will then be classified using third party software. Lastly the process towards becoming FFA Certified as a drone operator will be discussed.

"Updates to On-Line Surveying Education at the University of Maine"

While the on-line graduate education has been in place for 3 years, most of the undergraduate courses at the University of Maine now exist in on-line form and there are currently students seeking a BS degree in surveying engineering technology without coming to campus. The existing system will be examined & questions answered.

Advanced Continuously Operating Reference Network (ACORN)

Tom Meyer was awarded a Ph.D. from Texas A&M University in College Station, Texas in 1998, where he was a research associate in the Mapping Sciences Laboratory. He now is a Professor of Geodesy in the Department of Natural Resources and the Environment at the University of Connecticut, where he teaches courses in land surveying, geomatics, GNSS surveying, geodesy, and spatial statistics. Dr. Meyer was named a UConn Teaching Fellow in 2015. He is also a Fellow and the 2016 President of the American Association for Geodetic Surveying (AAGS), a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers (ASCE), the National Society of Professional Land Surveyors (NSPS), and the Connecticut Association of Land Surveyors. Dr. Meyer is on the editorial boards of the Journal of Surveying Engineering and Surveying and Land Information Science, has published an undergraduate textbook on geodesy and numerous peer-reviewed journal articles. He is a regular presenter at national meetings, giving workshops and seminars on numerous topics in geodesy, GNSS, and surveying.

Daniel J. Martin,

Northeast Regional Geodetic Advisor

"Journey to the Moving Center of the Earth"

Dan Martin works for the National Geodetic Survey and has been the Northeast Regional Geodetic Advisor since May of 2015. As the Regional Advisor, he instructs local surveyors, state and municipal agencies, and the geospatial community at large, on how to use and preserve the National Spatial Reference System, and provides liaison between the National Geodetic Survey and the States of ME, NH, VT, MA, CT, RI, NY, and NJ, as well as other federal agencies. He worked in the Route Survey and Geodetic Survey sections of the Vermont Agency of Transportation from 1988 through 2003, and held the position of Geodetic Program Supervisor for the Agency from 1999 through 2003. In 2003 Dan began his career with the National Geodetic Survey as the Vermont State Geodetic Advisor. Dan is a Past President and Fellow Member of the American Association for Geodetic Surveying (AAGS), he is also a member of the Vermont Society of Land Surveyors and the New Hampshire Land Surveyors Association.

"Journey to the Moving Center of the Earth - The Evolution of the National Spatial Reference System"

In 2002, NGS will be replacing the US horizontal and vertical datums (NAD 83 and NAVD 88). This workshop is designed to discuss the need and process for these changes, as well as how that affects surveyors and their access to these datums. Our journey will begin with a discussion of the history of the North American Datum of 1983 and the North American Vertical Datum of 1988, their relationships to other reference frames and the reasons for their ongoing evolution. We will also discuss the data used to produce NGS' National Adjustment of 2011, the relationships of geoid models to various versions of NAD 83 and what can happen should these relationships be ignored. Finally, we will discuss the need to replace NAD 83 and NAVD 88 and what activities are being undertaken to ensure a smooth transition.
