Mobilizing for Organizational Change to Address Microaggressions

ACEC/MA DEI Workshop Limited to 30 people

6/1 + 6/2, 1- 5 PM on Zoom

Looking to launch an impactful DEI initiative in your firm?

This 2-session workshop will introduce the Get A Collective GRIP® approach for addressing microaggressions through bystander activation. UMass Lowell Center for Women & Work's distinctive approach emphasizes ways that bystander action can foster more positive and inclusive organizational cultures by promoting collective accountability for challenging expressions of workplace bias.

Rather than a one-time bystander workshop, the approach underscores the importance of embedding the bystander work within an organization. The workshop will guide participants in the development of a strategic plan for bringing about significant organizational change. UML's Trainers recommend that firms enroll 2 people from each firm.

Engineers and Land Surveyors Virtually @ the State House

Register Today

This week we've held virtual meetings with several key legislative offices, including Jt. Committee on Environment, Natural Resources and Agriculture Chair Representative Carolyn Dykema, State Senator Brendan Crighton, staff from Transportation Chair, Rep. Bill Straus's office, and Majority Leader Claire Cronin's office. On May 20, we'll meet with Jt. Committee on Environment, Natural Resources and Agriculture Vice Chair Representative Mindy Domb.

Register today for some future appointments and to help us with advocacy in June and July. We're holding briefing sessions in early June to help prepare you for meetings.

In 2021, we are holding this event virtually, with legislative appointments with certain key legislative leaders, plus small group virtual appointments that will be organized in June and July with your State Representative and your State Senator. This is very different from past years, but it is
